Who You Need On Your Production Team

Screenwriter

The screenwriter writes the script for your film, crafting the entire story: characters, dialogue, settings, and everything in between. Once shooting begins, there will inevitably be moments that don't occur exactly as it was meant to according to the script. That's natural. But still, every film needs a place to start, and the script is that place. Unlike the rest of your film production team, if the screenwriter doesn't also hold other main roles in film production, he or she might not be very involved once shooting begins.
